FINAL EXERCISES HELD AT HOLLINS

Rare June Days Add to Pleasures of Graduates and Visitors.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Hollins, Va., June 6.—The Hollins College commencement exercises came to a close yesterday morning with the awarding of the B. A. degree to the largest class the college has ever sent forth, and an address to the graduates and students by Hon. James Alston Cabell, of Richmond. Since Saturday the finals have been going on, and a succession of rare days in June has added to the pleasure of all. Numerous visitors from various sections of the country have been here to rejoice with the sweet girl graduates and to enjoy the varied exercises of speech and song. When no college function has been going on either in the college chapel or down in the "Forest of Arden," the students and their friends have sat on the wide porches or out under the shade of the spreading trees, and it has been day after day not unlike a big house party.

First in the order of exercises came the senior reception, and then out on the lawn the mock tontine of the "detested" text books.

Sunday night the baccalaureate sermon was preached by the Rev. W. M. Clark, D. D., of Richmond, his text being "To the Pure All Things Are Pure."

Monday morning down by the sulphur spring the class-day exercises called for tears and laughter in turn as college jokes were quoted and the graduates realized that soon they would have to leave their alma mater.

Monday night, after a song recital by Miss Grace Mann, of Oklahoma, one of the college students, the alumnae banquet, with songs and short speeches galore and a good menu, proved pleasant until past midnight.

Tuesday morning came the delivery of distinctions in the lower classes and the announcement that the scholarship medal, the only medal given at Hollins, had been won by Miss Rachel Wilson, of Kentucky. Her average for the year on class standing and examination was 81.60-100, the president of the graduating class.

At a meeting of the Alumnae Association on Tuesday afternoon it was announced that food progress had been made towards the raising of a fund for the college building. Tuesday night the final event took place, the exercises yesterday morning the sixtieth session of Hollins came to an end. This year, while a large majority of the students have been from Virginia and the Southern States, a number of other States have been represented in the student body. States as remote as California and New Hampshire have sent their daughters. During the summer F. A. Cummings, of the college of English, will give two courses of lectures at Chautauque, New York, and Miss M. P. Parkinson, the woman principal, will take a party of young women to Europe. This summer, as practically every summer, improvements and enlargement of the buildings will take place. Scarcely will the students all be gone before the sound of saw and hammer will be heard, suggesting better equipment for the school's work next session.

CITIZENS' LEAGUE ORGANIZED.
Interesting Co-operative Educational Meeting at Cismont High School.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Kewasky, Va., June 6.—The co-operative educational meeting at the Cismont High School on Friday night was a great success in every way. The school is perhaps one of the handsomest and largest in rural Virginia, and the building was crowded to the ways, but nothing could show this more than the meeting on Friday night. Murray Boocock, of "Castalia," in his opening speech, very fittingly said that any school would be proud to have one of the distinguished speakers to visit their school, but on the platform were five of the most distinguished persons interested in education in all its branches in Virginia. Mr. Boocock, who is the president of the league, was the first to introduce the speakers. J. M. Binford, of Richmond, field secretary of the Co-operative Education Association, was the first to address the large and appreciative audience by a vivid description of his part of the work. Then Mrs. Landon Randolph Dashiell, of Richmond, director of Citizens' League of the Rural School, was introduced and talked most fully of the work of the league. Miss Agnew, of Burkeville, leader of the Girls' Totato Canning Clubs in Virginia, followed Mrs. Dashiell, and Mrs. B. H. Baker, of "her girls," Harry T. Baker, of Richmond, was the next speaker, and carried all before him in his talk of and to the boys. Mr. Baker is State boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and is doing a wonderful work in the future of Virginia. State chairman of the Y. M. C. A., Dr. Kent, always a finished and delightful speaker, was at his best in his plea to the boys of Virginia for greater things in the future was most inspiring. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Dashiell organized a Citizens' League of the Cismont High School. Mrs. Murray Boocock was elected president; Mrs. V. S. Perry, vice-president; secretary and treasurer, Miss Elbert; chairman of membership committee, Murray Boocock; chairman Grounds committee, George Mearns; chairman Training committee, Mrs. Aloys Everett; chairman of visiting committee, Mrs. W. O. Nolting.
